Content of the Module	This course will focus on the writings of Martin Luther, placing his thought within the broader historical and cultural context of late medieval Catholicism and the Renaissance. Luther’s early theological writings and the Reformation that they helped to spawn will be examined along with his later theological writings. Given the importance of Luther’s legacy on Protestantism, it is important for graduate students to have a comprehensive and in-depth understanding of the various aspects of his thought.

Learning Objectives	A. General Learning Objectives This course seeks to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Introduce students to the study of the Reformation period in general and the study of Martin Luther in particular.</li> <li>• Offer an overview of the life and theology of Martin Luther.</li> <li>• Interpret the various genres of theological writing from Martin Luther by reading, analyzing, and contrasting them with other writers from the time period (both Catholic and Protestant).</li> <li>• Describe the historical background to Luther's Reformation 'discovery.'</li> <li>• Examine the way that theological opposition and debate toward Luther's ideas helped to shape the way Luther's own theology developed.</li> <li>• Offer an overview of the intellectual and spiritual climate of the late medieval period and the influence it held on Luther's thought.</li> <li>• Evaluate the legacy of Luther's theology on Protestantism and Lutheranism.</li> <li>• Compare and contrast the theology of Luther with that of other Reformers.</li> <li>• Develop a model (interpretive 'grid') for reading Luther's writings.</li> <li>• Demonstrate the importance of various aspects of Luther's doctrine on the church today.</li> </ul> B. Specific Behavioral Objectives As a result of the activities and study in this course, the student should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Demonstrate an understanding of the late medieval background of Luther's Reformation discovery and the development of his theology.</li> <li>• Outline an overview of Luther's life and theology (for this letter, particularly from a timeline of his writings).</li> <li>• Construct an interpretive model for reading Luther's theological writings.</li> <li>• Identify the ways that theological opposition to Luther's thought shaped Luther's own theology.</li> <li>• Evaluate the legacy of Luther's theology.</li> <li>• Compare and contrast Luther's theology with that of other Reformers.</li> <li>• Assess the value of Luther's thoughts for the church today.</li> </ul>
